1

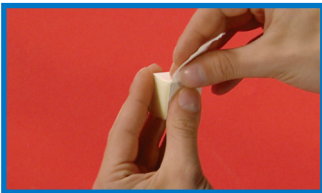

Use scissors to cut a piece of foam into three cubes.

2

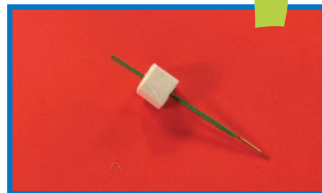

Cut a piece of card stock the same width as the cubes, and long enough to wrap around all four sides of a foam cube. Fold the card stock strip in half and then fold it in half again.

3

Unfold the card stock, wrap it around the cube and tape it into place. Wrap the other two cubes with card stock as well.

4

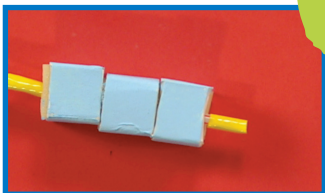

Poke the back of a paintbrush through the middle of a cube.

5

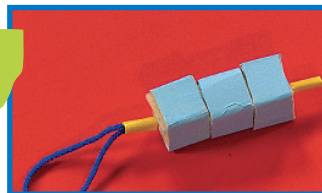

Tape a little bit of masking tape to the end of the straw and slide the other two cubes onto the straw.

6

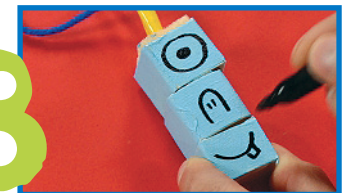

Paint the cubes any way you like and set aside to dry.

7

Tie a loop out of yarn and duct tape it onto one end of the straw. Add duct tape to the other end so the cubes won't fall off.

8

With a marker, draw four different sets of eyeballs on the top cube, draw four different noses on the middle cube and draw four different mouths on the bottom cube! That way, when your cubes are lined up, you'll have a face.

9

And when you turn your cubes, you'll have an altogether different face.
