

Flying Dragon

check list:

1. cardboard
2. marker
3. scissors
4. pencil
5. masking tape
6. elastics
7. pipe cleaner
8. string
9. hair net
10. small rocks

1

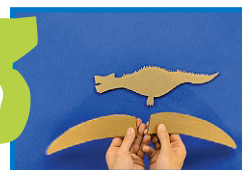

Use your marker to draw an outline of a dragon on a piece of cardboard.

2

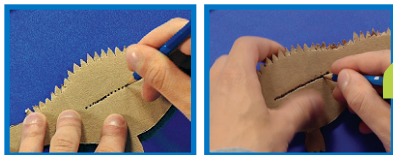

Use scissors to cut the dragon out.

3

Draw long pointy wings on another piece of cardboard and cut them out.

4

Use a pencil to mark the width of the wings onto the body of your dragon. Once you have the two marks, poke the pencil in the cardboard to join the two dots. Then drag the pencil back and forth between the two dots until you've made a slot. Make the slot big enough to fit the cardboard wing.

Push one of the cardboard wings through the slot.

Tape a piece of masking tape to the bottom of the wing, leaving space for the other wing to stick to the tape.

7

Tape the other wing on – leave about 5 cm of space between the two wings and wrap the tape around.

8

Now centre your dragon wings and make sure they flap.

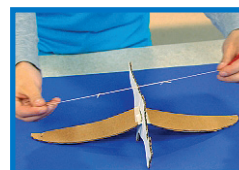

9

Take a pencil and poke three holes: one at the tip of each wing (that's two) and a hole through the dragon's back, just above the wings.

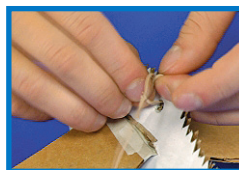

10

Cut a bunch of elastics in half and tie them together to create a long elastic string.

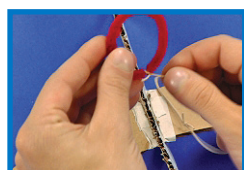

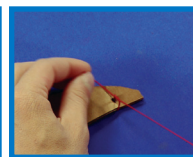

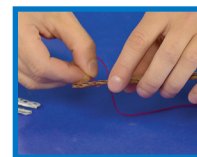

11

12

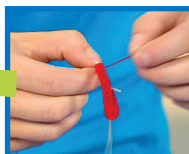

Pull the end of the elastic string through the hole on the dragon's back and tie a knot.

13

Create a loop out of pipe cleaner, and tie the elastic string to the loop.

14

Thread the string through the pipe cleaner loop and tie the other end of the string to the other wing. When you hold the bottom of your dragon and pull the string, the wings will flap. Adjust the length of the string to get the best flapping motion.

15

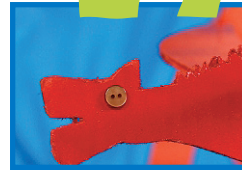

Now put a few pebbles or small rocks into a hair net and tie it up.

Poke a hole at the bottom of your dragon's belly and use some twist ties to attach the bag of rocks. Adding this weight to your dragon will help make the wings flap. You'll have to play with the number of rocks you use to get it just right.

17

Paint your dragon any way you like!

And there you have it...an Artzooka flying dragon! Impressive!
