

Hot Air Balloon Door Alarm

check list:

1. talking fly swatter
2. 2 pieces of fabric
3. black marker
4. fabric glue
5. scissors
6. small cardboard box
7. string

A talking fly swatter is a novelty item that is sold in dollar store shops. This is a special kind of fly swatter that has a motion sensor that makes noise when it's moved around. Ask an adult to help remove the speaker from the fly swatter.

Now you need a hot air balloon to put the speaker in.

Draw a balloon shape on a piece of fabric. Make it slightly bigger than the size you want your balloon to be.

Place the balloon cutout on top of the second piece of fabric. Once it's lined up, use scissors to cut the second balloon out.

Put fabric glue all the way around the outline of one of your pieces, but don't glue the straight bottom part of the balloon.

Place both fabric pieces together and set aside to dry.

When the fabric glue is completely dry, turn the balloon inside out.

Now pinch the fabric in the middle of one side of the balloon and cut a small hole. Then put your scissors in the hole and cut a straight line up the middle just big enough to fit in a doorknob.

Use fabric glue to attach four pieces of string from the bottom of the air balloon to a small box. Set aside to dry.

8

Take the speaker that you removed from the fly swatter and place it in the basket.

You're almost done! Hang your hot Artzooka balloon on the doorknob and wait for someone to open the door. The movement will activate the speaker, and whoever opened the door will get an Artzooka surprise!
