

Eye Spy Drawing

check list:

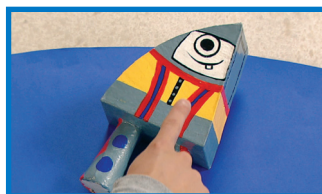

1. paper
2. marker
3. a large book

Here's a cool exercise that helps artists learn to really focus on the thing they are drawing, by drawing it without looking at your paper. It's tricky, but it's a lot of fun!

Need help?

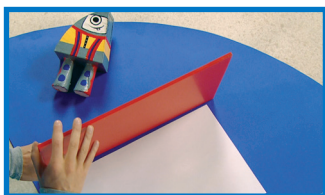

Watch the video:
www.cbc.ca/kidscbc/artzooka

1

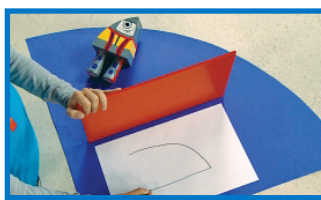

First, find something that you want to draw. Take a good look at it. Look at its shape, lines and edges. You might even want to trace the object with you finger to really focus on the object.

2

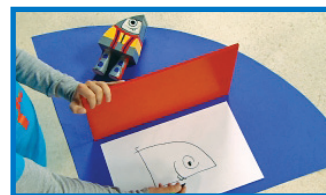

Now, you're ready to draw! Place a divider between your object and the paper you'll be drawing on. The divider will help stop you from looking at your drawing.

3

Focus only on the object. Without peeking at your paper, start by drawing the basic outline of the object.

4

Still without looking at what you are drawing, add details to the object.

5

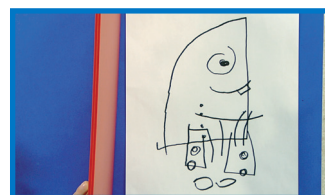

You're still not peeking, right!?

6

Great! Now add the final touches...

7

When you're finished, take a look at your drawing.

It may not be perfect, but that doesn't matter. It's all about focusing and seeing things in a whole new way, and that's what great Artzooka artists do best.!