

Tie Snake

check list:

1. metal clothes hanger
2. tissue paper
3. old tie
4. plastic jewels
5. double-sided tape
6. old flip-flop

1

Straighten out a metal clothes hanger by unwinding it at the top, then pulling it apart. (You might need a grown-up's help for this step.) Don't straighten out the small curve at the top of the hanger as this is the snake's head. Set aside.

2

Crumple up tissue paper and stuff it into the fat end of a tie. Keep stuffing until the bottom half of the tie is filled with tissue paper.

Once you finish stuffing the tie, insert the non-curved end of the straightened-out hanger into the bottom of the tie.

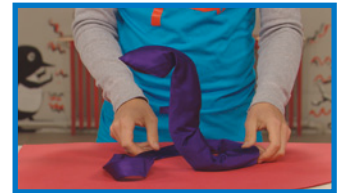

Tip: Slide the hanger inside along the side of the tie. This will stop the tie from getting caught in the tissue paper.

Insert the hanger all the way inside the tie. Fold the bottom part of the tie over the curved end of the hanger. This is the snake's head.

5

Bend the hanger to make the snake's body. Stand it up.

6

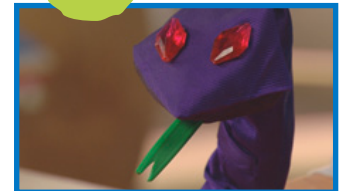

To give the snake eyes, stick double-sided tape onto the backs of two plastic jewels. Stick the jewels onto the snake's head.

Find an old flip-flop like the one in the photo.

8

Use scissors to cut off a piece of the flip-flop's strap. Now cut out a triangle in the end of the tongue. Tape the tongue inside the tie. The tie snake has a forked tongue just like a real snake!
