

Bird Stone Statue

check list:

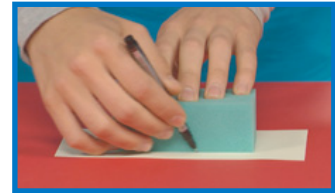

1. rectangular kitchen sponge (new)
2. white paper
3. black markers (thin, thick)
4. scissors
5. grey paint
6. water
7. paintbrush (medium-sized)

1

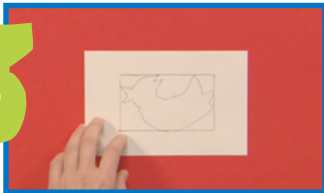

Place a rectangular kitchen sponge on white paper.

2

Trace around the bottom of the sponge with a thin black marker to make a rectangle on the paper.

3

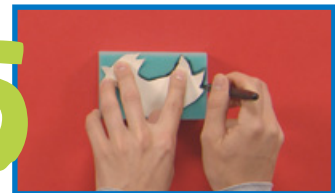

Draw the outline of a bird inside the rectangle.

4

Use scissors to cut out the bird.

5

Place the paper bird on the sponge and use a thick black marker to trace around the bird.

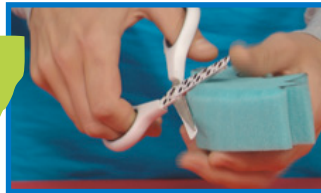

6

Cut out the sponge bird with scissors.

Tip: Make the sponge easier to cut by squeezing the sponge.

7

To make the sponge bird look more like a stone statue, you need to round out the edges of the bird with scissors. Do this by cutting along the edges on an angle.

8

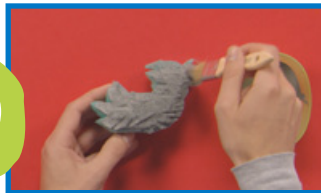

Once you finish cutting around all the edges, you'll see there is a flat part in the middle of the bird. Cut off this flat part by making little cuts all over it. These cuts give the bird definition.

9

Make little cuts all over the bird. It's starting to look like a stone statue!

10

Add a little water to grey paint to make it thinner. Dab the watered-down paint onto the sponge bird with a medium-sized paintbrush. Paint the bird on both sides and let it dry overnight.

11

When the bird is dry, it really looks like a stone statue!

Now that's Artzooka!

Upload pictures of what YOU make at cbc.ca/kids/games/artzooka