

Texture Rubbing

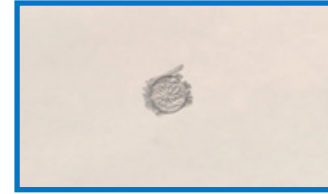

check list:

1. coin
2. white paper
3. pencil
4. black marker
5. tin pie plate
6. pencil crayons
7. cheese grater
8. plastic tray with design

1

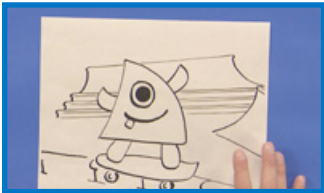

Put a coin under a white piece of paper. Rub a pencil over the coin. See the cool texture it makes?

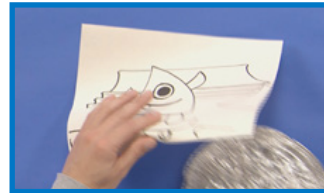

This technique is called "texture rubbing." You can use different objects to make different textures. Find out how in the next steps!

2

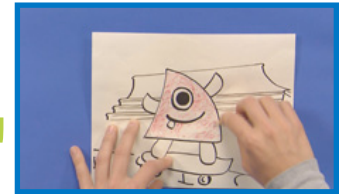

Draw a picture on a white piece of paper using a black marker. The picture should be fairly simple with not a lot of detail.

3

Flatten out a tin pie plate by pressing down on it with your hands. Now slide the pie plate underneath your picture.

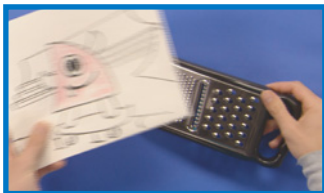

4

For our example, we're going to colour Arty with a red pencil crayon. Gently rub the pencil crayon over Arty.

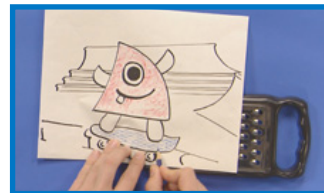

Tip: Use the side of the pencil crayon to colour, not the point. If you use the point, it could rip the paper.

5

For the skateboard, use a cheese grater to create texture. Slide the grater underneath the drawing so the small bumps of the grater are under the skateboard.

6

Colour the skateboard with a blue pencil crayon. The cheese grater gives the skateboard a really cool design!

7

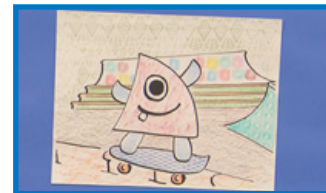

For the picture's background, use a plastic tray with a neat design.

8

Place your picture in the tray. Colour the background any colour you like.

You can use many objects around the house to make different textures. Here is an example of a finished textured picture.

Now that's Artzooka!

Upload pictures of what YOU make at cbc.ca/kids/games/artzooka